

Voices from the Margins: An Ecofeminist Reading of Aalahayude Penmakkal

Reena T K

Department of History, Carmel College (Autonomous), Mala, Thrissur

Email: reena@carmelcollegemala.ac.in

Received on 8 October 2025; Accepted on 8 November 2025

Abstract

Eco-feminism is a major trend within feminism that addresses the link between women and nature. Both the environment and women are often considered entities that have suffered ill-treatment under patriarchal society. Eco-feminist engagements in literature provide valuable insights in this regard. Aalahayude Penmakkal, written by Sara Joseph, is one such work. The novel enriches the eco-feminist understanding of society.

Keywords: Eco-feminism, women, nature, literature, Aalahayude Penmakkal, hydro-ecocriticism